FOOTBALL '99

MEDIA GUIDE

COLUMBIA FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION

The Columbia Football Association is beginning its 15th season this fall. Current members include Central Washington, Western Washington, Simon Fraser, Western Oregon and Humboldt State.

James P. Jorgenson, a 1964 graduate of Seattle University, is in his second season as the commissioner of the CFA. Jorgenson previously served as the commissioner of the now defunct Northern California Athletic Conference.

All but Humboldt State are charter members of the association which was formed in 1985 when the 14 football-playing schools in the Pacific Northwest combined into one league.

Two schools later dropped football - Pacific following the 1991 season and Oregon Tech following the 1992 season. The conference shrunk to six teams in 1996 when the six members of the Northwest Conference elected to withdraw from the CFA to form their own football league.

In 1997, Eastern Oregon elected to withdraw from the CFA to compete as an independent, but at the same time Humboldt State, a NCAA Division II school in Arcata, Calif., joined the CFA. Southern Oregon withdrew following the 1998 season.

Currently three conference teams - Western Washington, Central Washington and Humboldt State - compete at the NCAA Division II level. Western Oregon will play one more season at the NAIA level prior to gaining full NCAA status in 2000.

Pending NCAA legislation to allow Canadian schools membership, Simon Fraser is also hoping to move its program to the NCAA in the near future.

CFA teams have won four NAIA national titles - Linfield in 1986, Pacific Lutheran in 1987 and 1993 and Central Washington in 1995. Five other times CFA teams have lost in the championship game.

NCAA Division II Playoff Format

Central Washington University ended its long football affiliation with the NAIA last fall, qualifying for the playoffs for the ninth time.

Beginning this fall, the Wildcats will compete at the NCAA Division II level.

Unlike the NAIA, no automatic berths are awarded to the NCAA 16-team post-season tournament.

A committee selects four teams from each of four regions to compete in the tournament. The committee also puts out a weekly poll and also decides on the seeding for the first-round of the playoffs.

Members of the five-member West Region committee include Steve Card, associate athletic director for business and financial affairs at Western Washington University; Marv Kay, director of athletics at Colorado School of Mines; Bud Elliott, head football coach at Eastern New Mexico University; Dave Prezler, assistant athletic director at Fort Lewis University and Morris Sloan, head football coach at Southeastern Oklahoma University.

Three Columbia Football Association teams - Central Washington, Western Washington and Humboldt State - are eligible for the NCAA playoffs.

Western Oregon and Simon Fraser along with independents Eastern Oregon and Southern Oregon will be eligible for at-large berths in the NAIA playoffs. Since only two CFA teams now compete at the NAIA level, the league no longer qualifies for an automatic berth in the playoffs.

CWU completed its NAIA playoff history with a record of 10-8-1. The Wildcats reached the semifinals four times, winning a share of the NAIA national title in 1995 under the direction of All-American quarterback Jon Kitna, who now plays for the Seattle Seahawks.

ADMINISTRATION

KEITH CHAMPAGNE Athletic Director, 1st Year

Keith Champagne, 40, will begin his first season as Central Washington University's athletic director this fall.

Champagne, who has been CWU's assistant vice-president for student affairs since 1991, replaces Dr. Gary Frederick, the university's AD since Sept., 1980.

Frederick, 61, will continue to coach CWU's women's softball team and will begin a phased retirement by teaching classes in the physical education department.

Champagne will serve on an interim basis while CWU conducts a nation-wide search for a permanent athletic director.

Champagne, who earned a bachelor of arts degree in communications from Loyola University (La.) in 1983, takes over an athletic program that has been one of the best among NAIA schools over the past two decades.

"I'm pretty excited to start work," Champagne, who has overseen CWU's athletic program the past three years in his position as assistant vice-president of student affairs, said.

"We've had one of the top NAIA programs, both athletically and academically in the nation over the past 20 years under Gary's leadership, and now our goal is to build a premier NCAA Division II program in which athletic and academic success are synonymous."

During Frederick's 19-year tenure, the Wildcats, who now compete at the NCAA Division II level, won a total of five NAIA national team championships and were perennially ranked in the Top 10 in the NAIA National All-Sports competition, winning the men's all-sports national title in the 1986-87 season.

CWU won the 1995 NAIA Division II national football title and also won national titles in men's swimming in 1984, 1986 and 1987 and women's swimming in 1986. CWU also advanced teams a total of 22 times to post-season play in football and men's basketball.

CWU athletes also won a total of 94 Academic All-American awards during Frederick's tenure.

Frederick feels confident that he is leaving the program in good hands. "Keith was the logical choice," Frederick said. "He and I have worked closely over the past three years and we've kept him well informed on the day-to-day operations of the department. He has also been actively involved in the major decisions of the department over that time."

Champagne said he believes he knows what changes and developments need to occur to maintain the current number of sports CWU now sponsors and to improve the quality of its offerings in the context of gender equity issues and Title IX requirements.

"I have a strong commitment to integrity in the administration of the athlete program at CWU," Champagne said. "I believe I also have the ability to promote and enhance collaboration with others in the division of student affairs and other personnel throughout the various university communities in areas such as student advocacy, student development, student retention, community relations, marketing and athletic development and fundraising.

"I will also seek to develop relationships and form alliances with local business and civic leaders, state legislators and members of the ethnic and racial minority communities throughout the state."

Champagne is a 1978 graduate of Hahnville (La.) High School where he played football, basketball and competed in track-and-field.

After earning his undergraduate degree from Loyola, he earned a master's of science degree in communications from Clarion University (Pa.) in 1989.

Prior to joining CWU's staff in 1991, he worked in the Admissions, Promotion and Recruiting office at Loyola University between 1982 and 1985 and served as the community relations officer at Coastal Training Institute in New Orleans between 1985 and 1986.

He also worked as a paralegal (1987-90) and was a legal clerk in the office of the State Attorney General in Hartford, Conn., the summer of 1987.

After earning his master's degree at Clarion, he served the Pennsylvania university as its director of minority student retention and was also its program coordinator for career services.

He also negotiated and drafted a contract between the student government association and the athletic department which provided the athletic program with a substantial percentage (40 to 45) of the service activities fees to maintain and enhance a program that operates one NCAA Division I (wrestling) and 13 Division II teams.

At CWU, he has had oversight and management responsibilities for the athletic department, the career development services and the center for student empowerment. He also was the university's ADA compliance officer between 1993 and 1996 and has had oversight and management responsibilities for the university's student judicial program.

He oversaw the creation, development and implementation of student radio station KCWU-FM as an over-the-air FCC licensed station. He also oversaw the successful passage of a student referendum which allowed students to assess themselves a $105 yearly fee for athletics to maintain and operate a NCAA Division II program.

Champagne is a member of the Sports Management Institute. This past summer he took part in a seven-day executive sports management seminar at the University of North Carolina - Chapel Hill sponsored by the institute. He will also attend another week-long session at the University of Southern California in January.

Champagne is a member of the Sports Lawyers Association, the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Association for Student Judicial Affairs. He was a board member of the Kittitas County Red Cross between 1991 and 1994.

Academic All-Americans

Since the NAIA Academic All-American awards program was initiated in 1982, a total of 12 Central Washington University football players won 14 certificates. That is more than in any other sport at CWU except swimming.

Larry Bellinger and Jeff Nordstrom became the first two-time All-Americans in 1993 and 1994. Andy Lwanga earned Academic All-American honors in 1995.

Winners of the academic award have also included defensive back Mark Bergsma and defensive tackle Tim DeGross in 1983, linebacker Dennis Edwards in 1984, wide receiver Mark Robinson, defensive back and punt return specialist Ron Nelson and running back Ed Watson in 1986, offensive lineman Wayne Kilburn in 1987 and linebacker Eric Granberg and defensive tackle Alan Kesti in 1989.

In addition to being named to the Academic All-American team, DeGross and Bellinger were selected the District 1 Scholar-Athletes for football in 1983 and 1993, respectively. That program was disbanded following the 1993 season.

Tight end Rod Handley, who now works for the national office of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, was selected to CoSIDA's Academic All-American squad in 1981.

With CWU's move to the NCAA, CWU players are now eligible for the GTE Academic All-American team.

Two players - Brandon Christensen and Dan Murphy - were named to the GTE Academic All-American West Region team last fall.

Welcome to Central Washington University

Central Washington University and the community of Ellensburg is a great place to go to school or just to visit.

From our Japanese Garden to the Chimpanzee and Human Communication Institute (CHCI) and to downtown museums and galleries, the Kittitas Valley offers numerous adventures.

As a residential university in Ellensburg, we provide living, dining and health care facilities and opportunities for recreation, intramurals, performing and fine arts, sporting events, dances, guest speakers, classic films and seminars — all of which supplements learning, our primary focus.

Teacher training at CWU traces its history to 1891, when we opened as Ellensburg Normal School. Now, about 500 CWU students graduate with a teacher education major each year. While about 1,000 students make progress toward a teaching degree at any one time, many other CWU programs excel as well. For example, CWU enrolls the largest number of music majors in the state and graduates more music education majors than any other institution in the Northwest.

CWU's undergraduate accounting program is the second largest in the state. In a recent certified public accounting examination, graduates from CWU's Lynnwood Center scored the top three scores in Washington.

In all, CWU offers more than 100 majors and eight pre-professional programs for undergraduates. Students gain a broad-based liberal arts foundation through our General Education curriculum. More than 125 international and student exchange programs create exciting options for students, who might be interested in spending a quarter or more in Greece, Japan, China, Chile, Mexico, France, Australia or one of many other locations.

Closer to home, students take advantage of our six university centers in SeaTac, Lynnwood, Steilacoom, Yakima, Wenatchee and Moses Lake. Especially attractive and accessible to students with work and/or family responsibilities, the centers offer upper division coursework leading to bachelor's degrees in a variety of disciplines, for those who have completed their first two years of college study. About 20 percent of our graduates each year attend the centers.

Approximately 61 percent of CWU students in Ellensburg or at the westside centers come from counties in the I-5 corridor, between Clark County north to Whatcom County. For the past two decades, about 55 percent of the Ellensburg enrollment originated from west of the Cascades.

Annually, an average of 2,040 new transfer students and 1,075 new freshmen enter the university. In all, CWU has about 8,000 students at the Ellensburg campus and 1,100 juniors and seniors at its six university centers.

CWU is recognized for many of its programs, faculty, staff and students. For three straight years it has been included in "The Student Guide to America's 100 Best College Buys." The guide profiles institutions that have high academic ratings, yet maintain low total costs for the college year.

The American Indian Science and Engineering Society 1998 edition of Winds of Change magazine's "Annual College Guide for American Indians" included CWU among nine "campus portraits" of higher education.

Athletically, CWU recently made a transition to NCAA Division II membership from the NAIA, where it was consistently a successful program. For 10 consecutive years beginning in 1982-83, CWU was ranked in the Top 8 in the NAIA Men's All-Sports competition. CWU won the 1986-87 men's all-sports title.

CWU student-athletes also perform well in the classroom. During the 1998-99 season, the following seven individuals were GTE Academic All-American West Region selections: Dan Murphy and Brandon Christensen, football; Brad Hawkins, cross country; Joni Jacobs, swimming; Bart Orth and Ben Orth, wrestling; and Nathan Bishop, baseball. Named to the Pacific West Conference Academic All-Star team were: Amber Rikerd and Gretchen Talmadge, soccer; and Brad Hawkins and Fred Schmitt, cross country.

CWU, led by All-American running back Dan Murphy, has won three straight Cascade Cup trophies. The Cascade Cup annually goes to the winner of the Western-Central football game.
